Body

Burnaby's case against pipeline dismissed, Aug. 24

There are days when I wonder what kind of people are in charge of the Star. Today is one of them.

You ran this story about the "case against (the) pipeline" on page A7, while articles on finding house prices online and hockey were put on the front page. How come?

This article is concerned with the attempt to hold back the ever-increasing production of CO2, which, through global warming, is leading us to our doom.

Does it not deserve the highest priority?
